NEW ORE RATE FOR PITTSBURG DISTRICT
NOT SATISFACTORY*Independent Steel Men Will Object to 88-Cent
Tariff.*WHEELING DISTRICT HARD HIT*Baltimore & Ohio Files New Rates Increasing Wheeling Charge 28 Cents and Only Reducing Pittsburgh Tariff 16 Cents; Other Roads Make No Move.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—A rate of 88 cents a ton on iron ore from Lake Erie ports to Pittsburgh and Wheeling was filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The prevailing rate on ore is 96 cents a ton to Pittsburgh and 90 cents to Wheeling. The 88-cent rate by the Baltimore & Ohio is in accordance with the recent ruling of the commission that the Pittsburgh and Wheeling rates should be equalized and was the result of a suit instituted against the carrier by the Pittsburgh Steel Company on the ground that Pittsburgh was discriminated against in favor of Wheeling and other competing points.

More or less of a mystery surrounds the rate of the Baltimore & Ohio. This was the last day for filing the tariff. The Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, named in the suit, have failed to indicate what their new rate will be. They are liable to a fine of $5,000 each for every day they fail to comply with the commission's order. August 15 is the day upon which the new rate is to become effective.

The Baltimore & Ohio, while indirectly affected by the commission's ruling, was only an intervenor in the suit, and the failure of the three carriers to announce their new rates is puzzling the attorneys for the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

It is announced by the attorneys for the Pittsburgh Steel Company that the new rate of 88 cents is not satisfactory and does not afford the relief sought by the independent steel manufacturers of the Pittsburgh district. While the Pittsburgh rate is reduced eight cents a ton and the Wheeling rate advanced to 88 cents a ton, the carriers have seen to it that their revenues are increased by approximately $329,000 annually by the change.

Pittsburgh manufacturers, exclusive of the United States Steel Corporation, ship 5,000,000 tons of ore from Lake Erie ports to their mills and furnaces, by the eight-cent reduction there is an apparent saving of $20,000 annually to the Pittsburgh shippers.

On the other hand the Wheeling district takes in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 tons annually. The 28-cent increase means $560,000 additional to the railroads. As a result of the suit the carriers have figured out a larger profit than they enjoyed under the old rate.

It is contended by the independent manufacturers in both the Pittsburgh and Wheeling territory that the readjustment fails to give the desired relief, since they are not on an equal footing with the Steel Corporation which is enabled to reach the ownership of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, to bring its ore to Pittsburgh at an average rate of 28 cents per ton.

No Move in Wheeling. WHEELING, July 17.—Local manufacturers declared they had made no move yet to bring forward an effort to prevent a change in ore rates from the lake, but they were opposed to the change and would likely not in the near future.

Plans for the merger of the Lake Erie and other independent plants of this section are still going forward and it was stated by some of the biggest stockholders and officials of the company that they would continue to go forward, no matter what was done in the matter of a change in ore rates.

JOHNS IS FREED
No Evidence to Hold Him for Alice Crispell's Murder.

WILKES-BARRE, July 17.—Inability of the Commonwealth to make out a case strong enough to hold the defendant for the grand jury caused Judge Fuller today to discharge from custody Herbert Johns, who has been confined in the county jail for nine days charged with the murder of Alice Crispell, whose body was found in Harvey's Lake on the morning of July 7.

No new evidence was presented at the hearing and the accused was given his liberty on motion of his attorney, who held that in the first instance no murder had not been proven, and in the second instance the defendant had not been connected as principal or accomplice in her death.

The judge decided it was a woman's question and since women are now old enough to vote in Illinois he called a jury of women.

ELIMINATING THE KING*Norway's Parliament Proposes to Strip Ruler of His Power.

United Press Telegram. CHRISTIANIA, Norway, July 17.—Norway's king hereafter will be merely an ornamental decoration—a mere puppet—if a measure which has been submitted to the national Storting (parliament) becomes a law. Having granted woman suffrage, which has placed women upon absolute political equality with men, the Storting, through a special committee, named today, began active steps to put through a measure which would take from the king his power of veto and approval of laws passed by that body.

Only the signature of a responsible minister will be necessary to make enacted bills law. The measure being considered also would abolish all orders and decorations and takes from the king the right to confer them. If these laws pass the King of Norway would have less governmental power than authority than Joseph Bonaparte, secretary to President Wilson.

SEATTLE CELEBRATES*Golden Potluch Featured by Presence of United States Minister.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 17.—With Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Governor Ernest Lister of Washington, and many distinguished men and army and navy officials in the reviewing stand, the civic parade in which 5,000 marched, was held here today in connection with the Golden Potluch celebration. Coast artillery and infantry of the regular army, sailors and marines, the elite national guard, the Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish War Veterans and gaily uniformed detachments of fraternal and civic organizations were in the line of march. Eight battalions, four submarines and four torpedo boats anchored in the harbor during the parade. The parade was added to the splendor of the impressive pageant.

SLIT SKIRT COSTS $25*Indignant Girl Pays Fine but Says Town Is "Liberal."

RICHMOND, Va., July 17.—Blossom Browning paid a $25 fine in Judge Crutchfield's court here yesterday for wearing a slit skirt and declared she intended to go to New York, "where people are not snobs." She was charged with indecent exposure. The skirt, slit knee high and held by the police as evidence, was restored to Miss Browning on her promise to sew up the slit or not to appear again in the streets of Richmond without a petticoat.

The justice, after an inspection of the offending skirt, blushing found the defendant, who paid with the retort that "Richmond was a most liberal city."

BANK DIVIDEND SOON.*Receiver of First-Second Trusts to Pay 20 Per Cent in 60 Days.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—C. C. Murray, receiver for the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, spent the day in Washington conferring with Treasury Department officials relative to the failure of the bank. Murray told Acting Comptroller Thomas P. Kane that he hoped to declare a 20 per cent dividend to depositors of the bank within 60 days of the date of closing. Whether the bank would pay out in full was not known.

The assessment against the stockholders, it is declared, has not been determined and will not be until the affairs of the institution are examined.

SOUTH SIDE CHURCH
WILL COST $60,000;
PLANS ARE ADOPTED*Presbyterians Will Start
Work Within the Next
60 Days.*STONE EDIFICE TO BE ERECTED*Church and Sunday School Room to Seat Nearly 1,500 Persons; Pastor
Will Have 10-Room Parsonage Adjoining; Fairmount Model Suitable.

Within 60 days work on the erection of the new Presbyterian Church will be under way. At a congregational meeting in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. last night, members of the congregation approved the action of the building committee and the trustees and accepted the proposed plans. Architect C. B. Pratt of Columbus is now preparing the working plans. As soon as these are completed bids will be asked of contractors.

The building will be a duplicate of the Fairmount church. Before the plans were drawn, members of the building committee, accompanied by the trustees, visited Fairmount, and inspected that building. They were well pleased and decided that it was suitable for Connellsville.

Situated at the corner of Green and Pittsburgh streets, the church will have two entrances, one on each thoroughfare. They will lead into the main auditorium, which will be 63 feet square. The Sunday school room will be on Green street, with the parsonage facing Pittsburgh street.

The parsonage will be a part of the church. There will be a passageway leading from the church to the parsonage. There will be ten rooms in the parsonage.

The church will be stone, with Gothic architecture prevailing. It will have a seating capacity of 1,470 persons. The main auditorium and the remainder in the two balconies and Sunday school room. The balconies will be over the main auditorium. The corridor will be 10 feet wide.

On special occasions when the attendance is large, it will be possible to open the Sunday school room to provide additional seating facilities. A large folding door 14 feet wide will join the two rooms. It is estimated that the cost of the building will approximate $60,000.

Members of the building committee, who will have charge of the supervision of the work, are: Colonel F. H. Field, chairman; Dr. E. W. Allen, R. C. Dearbower, W. W. Smith, C. F. Hirst, W. N. Leche, W. R. Kenney, Dr. J. D. Woods, C. W. Downs, Dr. J. C. McClenahan, T. J. Hooper, E. K. Dick and H. G. May.

CLOSE IN ON BULGARS*Greeks, Serbians and Roumanians Prepare to Crush Late Army.

United Press Telegram. LONDON, July 17.—The Greek, Serbian and Roumanian troops are today closing in on Bulgaria. Reports received here this morning are to the effect that the Serbians stormed Jalkamlik, routing the Bulgars and the army of the Bulgarians back into the city.

The advance of the Roumanians continues unopposed. To prevent two steamers and two torpedo boats from falling into their possession, the Bulgars sank them. King Charles, the 74 year old leader of the Roumanians, is at the head of the army, and is directing the advance.

Advices from Sofia say that Christians are fleeing into Bulgaria before the advance of the Bulgarians. It is believed will make an effort to retake Adrianople. If the Ottoman advance continues, the Powers may protest.

TOUGH ONE FOR WILLIS.*Congressional "Red Speller" Has Task Set for Him.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Representative Willis of Ohio who recently carried off the palm at a National Press Club spelling bee was "stumped" today. He received from his brother who had heard of his orthographic prowess a business card on which was engraved the name: "James F. Pappathodorokommon-torgopotopos."

In a letter accompanying the card Representative Willis' brother demanded that he justify his reputation by either spelling or pronouncing the name.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY FORCES
HAND OF ADMINISTRATION*Both Foreign and American Interests Demand Settlement of the Mexican Situation.

United Press Telegram. WASHINGTON, July 17.—The dollar diplomacy angle is the most compelling feature of the Wilson administration has to face in dealing with the Mexican situation. Not only are foreign interests complaining to the State Department, but it was learned today that American interests are taking similar action.

If the United States recognizes the Huerta regime, some of the Mexican administration's difficulties will be over. The country will then be in a position to negotiate a loan with American banks.

President Wilson sees no reason for changing the administration's attitude in connection with the Mexican situation. The situation is no more complicated today than it has been previously, and it is an authoritative statement issued from the White House this morning.

A dispatch from Mexico City says suppressed excitement was apparent following the departure of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson for Washington. It is expected he will arrive in Washington on July 28. Mr. Wilson expects to return immediately following the conference. He should be back in two weeks.

PREDICT A STRIKE*Conductors and Trainmen on the Erie Road to be Called Out.

United Press Telegram. NEW YORK, July 17.—A strike order affecting the Erie railroad, ending one of the Erie's 4,000 conductors and trainmen, was predicted this morning when 75 representatives of the Erie employees met here. They were summoned to the meeting in response to a call issued by President Garretson of the Conductors' Brotherhood and President W. C. Lee of the Trainmen, when it was learned that the Erie refused to agree to the arbitration of their demands.

That the employees plan a partial strike, tying up the great coal traffic of the system was admitted. The employees would first call out the freight employees and later, if necessary, have the passenger men walk out.

An exceedingly tense situation developed this morning when the conference committee of railroad managers and employees met to consider arbitration of wage increases. An element of insurgency arose among the wage delegates of the eastern division, who are said to have demanded that all negotiations be broken off because the railroads assert that eight demands against the employees must be settled by the same board of arbitration that decides the employees' demands.

TESTING Mallet ENGINES*Big Locomotive Is Being Tried Out in Road Service.

One of the big Mallet locomotives, the best type of motive power for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad in West Virginia. The engine weighs 24 tons in working order. There are 20 of these engines in use on the mountainous division of the Baltimore & Ohio; they being operated in pusher service; but the experiment is being made to test Mallet engines in road service.

The Mallet engines used by the Baltimore & Ohio possess 25 per cent of the power of the freight engines in general use. The test will determine the ability to make time handling trains of heavy tonnage.

The Municipal League, having disposed of the Clark third class city bill to the satisfaction of its principal exponent by getting the test and under way, will tomorrow night put the School Board on the grill. Nothing is said about grilling in the announcement of President W. S. Behanna, but there will be a talk or two aired, according to unofficial information.

Congestion in the schools and the avowed intention of sending the Fourth ward children to the South Side are the main topics. Then, too, the 15-mill school tax will not be overlooked. Some of the Municipal Leaguers think the schools are costing too much money, and will request explanations.

The call for the meeting includes a special invitation for the school directors. They may hear practical suggestions, Mr. Behanna states. The president of the league also, in his notice, cautions members to come in a spirit of fairness, and with only a desire to help the board.

FINE FIREWORKS*"Made in Dunbar" Display a Feature

The celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel yesterday was one of the most successful ever held by the Italians of this community. The weather was fine and added to the enjoyment of the day. Following the morning masses in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic church, the principal features on the program were the music of the Donizetti Band and the fireworks display in the evening.

Throughout the morning, afternoon and evening the band played about town. The singing of one of the members of the organization in the Italian language was a treat.

The fireworks display was held at Fayette field at 9:30 o'clock. It was witnessed by nearly 1,000 people, many of whom followed the band to the field when it marched at 9:15. Many of the set pieces were new, and all who witnessed the display were pleased with its completeness. The fireworks were supplied by the American Fireworks Company of Dunbar.

A record of car distribution of all mines on the Baltimore & Ohio lines will be kept in the office of the superintendent and the record will be open to inspection of authorized representatives of mine operators.

POTTSVILLE BELIEVES CLARK
BILL COVERS THE SITUATION*If Charter There Is Not Declared Void, Town Expects to Have Commission Government.

That Pottsville's position under the provisions of the Clark commission form of government for third class cities but not similar to that of Connellsville is the contention of officials of that town. They point out that while Connellsville secured a third class city charter under the provision of the old third class city law, Pottsville's charter was obtained under an act that had been repealed, and therefore, their charter is illegal, null and void and they are still a borough. However, the impression exists that Pottsville comes under the Clark bill if the charter is not revoked.

A letter received by Clerk of Council A. O. Bisher from G. A. Berner, clerk of the Pottsville council, reads as follows:

"Referring to your inquiry concerning the status of the city government for Pottsville in comparison with your own situation: I would say that our situation is not similar, inasmuch as the election in our town was held under a different act.

At the present time there is an effort being made to revoke our charter on the ground that it was issued under a law that has been repealed. If this effort is unsuccessful, the impression here is that we will assume the third class city government under the commission form as passed by the recent legislature. Whether or not there may be any legal objection to this has not arisen.

"If you have any information of legal opinion affecting the matter, should be so advised and will cheerfully reciprocate with anything that may arise with us."

WILLIAM STAUFFER DIES*Had Been a Resident of the West Side for the Past 50 Years.

William Stauffer, 79 years old, a resident of the West Side for about 50 years, died last evening at his home on Third street of pneumonia. Mr. Stauffer had been in ill health for the past several months and had been confined to his bed for two weeks. The body will be removed by Funeral Director C. C. Mitchell to the home of a brother, A. B. Stauffer, on Third street, from which place the funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Wilbur Nelson, pastor of the First Baptist church, will officiate. Interment in Hill Grove cemetery.

Mr. Stauffer was a son of Algham and Frances Stauffer and was born near Jacobs Creek. At an early age his parents moved to a farm in Dunbar township now known as the Trotter farm. Mr. Stauffer resided on the farm until his coming to the West Side. He never married. He was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge and was one of the oldest members of the church. He was a deacon in the church. He was one of the most widely known residents of the West Side and was highly respected by both young and old. The following sisters, Mrs. Eliza Patterson of Dravosburg, Mrs. Mary Coulson, with whom the deceased resided, Mrs. Anna Oglevee of Dunbar township, Mrs. Lucinda Altman of New Haven, Conn., Mrs. Adeline Smith of West Chester, and brother, A. B. Stauffer of the West Side, survive.

HIT BY FLOODS*Railroad Tieup in March Reflected in Semi-Annual Statement.

The regular semi-annual dividends of two per cent on preferred stock and three per cent on the common stock were declared at the meeting of the executive committee of directors of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company in New York last Thursday, July 10. With the payment of full dividend of four per cent on the preferred stock and six per cent on the common stock for the year, the company will have a surplus to carry to profit and loss of approximately $1,600,000, a decrease, compared with the previous year of $600,000.

The gross earnings, which for the first time exceeds $10,000,000, were somewhat depleted by the partial cessation of traffic for several weeks following the floods in March, incident to which the transportation as well as the maintenance expenses were greatly increased. The estimate to overcome the physical damage from the flood was approximately $3,000,000.

Ouster-Session.*BOTH SIDES MAKING BOASTS*Whether President Friel Is Ejected From Chair, or Holds His Job, Tonight's Session Promises to be a Lively One; All Members Going.

The council chamber promises to resemble a bullring or a cock-pit, something like that, when Town Council meets in regular session tonight. "It was stated by Chairman E. U. Hetzel of the police committee that he would have the cops on hand to preserve order. If any of the councilmen become obstreperous, they will be summarily ejected. The fact that Hetzel is friendly to President Friel may or may not be significant. In any event, the presence of a brass-buttoned minion of the law, awaiting a wink from the boss of the police committee is apt to make any belligerent think twice before he starts something.

Warm words and near-fights have occurred times without number during sessions of council in the past, but it isn't on record that any member has run the risk of being summarily ejected by a husky cop.

It is asserted that every member of council, to the number of 26, will be present at tonight's meeting. There is one vacancy, however, C. M. Stoner of the Sixth ward, having resigned. In addition to the councilmen and other borough officials, the spectators are expected to jam the limited space allotted them. Council meetings always have a liberal following, and the advertised determination of the ousters to go through with their program has awakened more than passing interest. Promise

BIG TONNAGE FIGURES.

Nearly Always They Show a Gain in Pittsburgh District.
The freight traffic of the Pittsburgh district, including receipts and shipments of all commodities by rail and river, increased from 43,897,781 tons in 1907 to 177,071,333 tons in 1912, according to a statement of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.
Every year, with three exceptions, has shown a gain over the preceding year. The first setback occurred in 1904 and was comparatively slight, amounting to only four million tons and odd on a total of 90 million. The one in 1908 was much more severe, the traffic falling off to 115 million tons from 141 million in 1907. In 1911 the freight movement declined three million tons from the 1910 figures.

DAM WORK STOPS.

Contractors Say Estimates for June Have Not Been Paid.
Work was stopped on the construction of the Chester river dam yesterday afternoon by Contractors T. A. Gillespie & Company of Pittsburgh. The 400 men working on the dam were paid off in full and many of them left for their homes.

WE GET FAIR PLAY.

Interstate Commerce Commission Ends Discrimination Against Connelleville.
The Interstate Commerce Commission has decided that Connelleville coke shippers are entitled to a reduction in freight rates. This is a far reaching victory and relieves the Connelleville district of an unjust burden it has carried for many years. It will add to the prosperity of our city, collectively and individually, but remember always that true prosperity consists in being able to show a balance over and above expenses. A savings account with the First National of Connelleville will help you to do that, and a 4 per cent compound interest will add materially to your savings. A dollar starts you.—Adv.

NEW ALASKAN PLAN

Senator Poindexter Would Use Panama Canal Machinery There.
A new plan is proposed by Senator Poindexter for the development of Alaska's coal resources under Government auspices. He introduced a bill by which all the machinery used in the construction of the Panama Canal would be transported to Alaska and the Government go into the coal mining business. Half of the coal lands are to be left for leasing to private individuals under specified regulations.

The bill contains a novel cooperative feature by which employees in the Government mines and consumers of Government mined coal would share equally the profits of coal mining.

It provides also for Government construction, ownership and operation of railroads and steamships, the location of depots on the Pacific Coast for the sale of coal at cost to consumers, prohibiting child labor, provision for an eight hour day, a minimum wage and accident insurance.

NEW MINES OPENED

Gangs of men were put to work on the opening of two new coal mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in Cecil and Mount Pleasant townships, Washington county. The Cecil township mine will be located at Bishop, while the Mount Pleasant workings are at George Station on the Wabash.

The territory to be developed lies along the route of the new railroad. Contracts have been let for the erection of 150 houses to provide quarters for the men. ## HAS GREAT FUEL RESOURCE

North Dakota Lignite of Great Potential Value as Source of Power.

The production of coal (lignite) in North Dakota in 1912, according to E. W. Parker of the United States Geological Survey, amounted to 498,480 short tons, valued at $785,105, compared with 592,623 short tons, valued at $729,489 in 1911, the latter tonnage being the maximum output in the history of the state. The decrease of 3,143 short tons in 1912 was so small as to possess no significance, while the increase of $44,616 in the value of the product indicates a satisfactory condition of trade. It is not, however, in the comparatively small production of coal in North Dakota that the importance of the state as a fuel producer lies. The vast lignite deposits of North Dakota must be considered as an enormous potential resource.

On account of its heavy percentage of moisture and rapid disintegration on exposure lignite does not stand transportation well, and consequently its field of usefulness has been thus far limited. Its principal use has been to supply fuel to the settlers on the treeless plains in the western part of the state, and for that purpose it has been mined in a crude way in almost every county in the lignite bearing area. Commercial mines are situated on the lines of railway and supply the towns of the state with fuel for domestic purposes and for use under steam boilers.

But lignite has been found to be an excellent fuel for generation of power. The production of lignite in the state, the extensive deposits of lignite in North Dakota will receive more attention as a source of power. It has been found that one ton of lignite in the gas producer will yield as much horsepower in internal combustion engines as one ton of the best bituminous coal under boilers. As the gas producer and internal combustion engines in large units came into more general use in the west, as they are rapidly doing in the east, the hundreds of billions of tons of lignite known to underlie North Dakota will be found to possess great economic value in the development of the state.

JOINT RATES DENIED

Commerce Commission Denies Right of Coal Roads to Share Profits.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued an order prohibiting the payment of any part of the through joint-rate on interstate shipments of coal to the Chicago, Zeigler & Co. and the Chicago, Zeigler & Co. The order is based on the fact that the service performed by the road in drawing empty cars from the tracks of the line-haul carriers to the Zeigler coal mine and returning the loaded cars to the main line carriers is private transportation, and that the company cannot be the recipient of divisions from joint through interstate rates on coal traffic. The commission cited the rate as unjust discrimination against other coal mines.

There are a number of such short line roads about whose only traffic is coal and coal-mine supplies in Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states to which this ruling would apply, so that it is probable that they may hear more of the application of this ruling; for it has long been a subject of complaint by competing coal producers, who will, doubtless, take it up for a further ruling on the subject.

Card Party Stunt.

You will be surprised to find it expeditious matters at your card party to have pencils fastened to the corners of the tables by means of a ribbon and a thumb tack. About a yard of baby ribbon is used for each pencil. Tie the pencil securely to one end and fasten the other under the corner of the table with a thumb tack. This does not mar the table, but prevents the pencil from being carried away or getting lost. At a card party recently the hostess had pencils attached to each corner, so that there was one for everybody.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines. It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but even yet for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

OVERHEAD COKE COSTS.

Commenting on the fact that the Isabella-Conneltsville Coke Company, with its pitney 250 acres and its magnificent tract of 2,000 acres of Conneltsville coking coal, is bonded for $2,000,000 and is not even a year in its production, the American Metal Market says:

"It may be interesting to consider the case of an ordinary operation, it is not regarded as improper to bond an operation at from $1,000 to $2,000 an acre, while two acres per oven is considered a good alignment, making for exhaustion of pits or a little more. The average yield is 7,000 tons of coke per acre, while the larger of the old style ovens will make 13 tons a week, and the new style of rectangular push oven will make up to 15 tons, as to 700 tons a year is a liberal estimate for an oven, which would exhaust an acre in ten years."

"Taking $1,000 an acre bond, the oven has to carry interest on $3,000, which at 5 per cent is $150. Exhaustion of the 20 years is to be taken, as well as amortization of the oven and other construction, so $1,000 should be taken for this, or $200 a year, making $350 a year altogether, to be taken care of by 700 tons of coke, making 50¢ per ton. It would not be safe to proceed on this basis, as there are necessarily lean years."

"This shows up clearly the trouble in the coke matter. There ought to be an allowance of about 75 cents after all expenses have been paid, and the coke market on an average has furnished no such margin. Either coke ought to be higher, or the bonds ought not to be in existence. However, the bonds are in existence, and are largely in banks. As they cannot be retired gracefully, the only alternative is to get more money for coke. That is what the operators, encouraged if not instructed by certain banking interests, have been trying to do."

"When receiverships occur, however, the alignment may be altogether different, and that is what makes the coke market particularly at sea this week, when a week ago it looked decidedly as if the remaining furnace ovens would have to come across on $2.50 coke. The receiver may be up against it and under the necessity of selling coke for less than $2.50. If $2.50 cannot be secured."

"These figures are substantially accurate, and they explain why the Conneltsville operators have concluded that they should under existing wage scales and other operating costs no longer sell coke under $2.50 per ton be the years lean or fat. The assumption, however, that bonded indebtedness is common to Conneltsville coke plants is not warranted by the facts. Some plants are so mortgaged, but many of them are unincumbered. In computing the value of Conneltsville coke, however, it does not matter in the least. Interest on the investment is a proper charge against the cost of the product, whether that interest money comes back to the producer or goes to the bondholder."

"As to the probable effect of receiverships on the price of coke, inasmuch as the Isabella-Conneltsville is the only company in the hands of receivers, or likely to be, its recent production of 1,700 tons weekly will hardly make or break the market."

THE RECALL.

Judge Ben Lindsay, of the Juvenile Court of Denver, Colorado, is threatened with a dose of his own medicine in the shape of the Recall.

The Judge is mostly a writer of books and a lecturer, and his favorite topic is Judge Lindsay's Uplifter, reformer, Progressive. He claims to have invented the juvenile court; reformed Denver; organized, with T. Roosevelt's assistance, the Progressive or Bull Moose party. The Initiative, Referendum and Recall make up an important part of his political creed. The Recall has been used with great propriety and some success upon others, but they were selected others. That it should be directed against the good Judge discovers a vital weakness in the Progressive system.

"We are confirmed in this belief by the Judge's own declarations. He says he will 'take them to a Caucus just as he did before.' He denounces the movement as a trick on the part of political opponents whom he defeated last fall, and adds this illuminating statement: 'The only sad feature of it is that they are keeping me poor. I have my home mortgaged and have been compelled to borrow large sums of money from the Denver banks to keep up the fight. Last fall I had to be elected twice to satisfy the gang rulers of Denver.'"

"It seems that the Recall works both ways. Most political reforms operate in much the same manner. For example, the Commission Government for third class cities is government by the few as against the old plan of government by the many. It is a ideal government when able and honestly administered, but once it falls into the hands of ignorant or wicked men the citizens may well say, 'Deliver us from evil.'"

COLORED TEACHERS AND PUPILS.

Rev. W. H. Smith, pastor of the colored Baptist Church at Vanderbit, is emphatic in the opinion that the colored people of that place do not want segregation of the races, however much they might prefer a colored teacher for the Paul public school. In a communication to The Courier, he says:

"The school at Paul has had colored teachers for a number of years. They have not only been quite successful as teachers, but also very helpful to the colored community; therefore, it is natural that the colored people of Vanderbit should feel keenly disappointed in not getting colored teachers for next school year. When, however, you speak of the demand of the negroes of Vanderbit for segregation of the pupils you misrepresent them, no doubt, unintentionally. There may be some wild talkers by miscellaneous and short-sighted parties, but there is no demand upon the part of the negroes of Vanderbit for segregation. Segregation of pupils would be most unfortunate for both races. Nothing does so much to foster and maintain a friendly feeling between the races as association in the class room. Moreover, the negro youth can not afford to lose the uplift that comes from contact with the better element of the whites in the class room."

Vanderbit has certainly had an excellent colored teacher. We recall that he believed in work as well as education, and had the courage to say so in a time when it seems to be the chief desire of everybody to work somebody else to keep from working themselves."

But in the selection of teachers the law does not demand applicants because of race, color or religion, though directors are sometimes accused of favoring candidates because of friendship, family or political influences. So far as we are advised, however, the selection of a white teacher for the Paul school was made with no view save the best interests of that school."

The West Penn has contracted to furnish power to many of its coal plants of the Latrobe and Ligonier districts. This expansion does not look like contraction or suspension even though work has been suspended on the Cheat river dam."

The Union picnic of the Merchants Association and the Sunday Schools promises to practically close up the town on July 31st.

Jacobs Creek Valley is excited over the prospects of striking gas or oil or both. The outside public would prefer that it be gas.

Detailed plans and descriptions of the emergency mine cage guaranteed to get down a shaft after an explosion in the mine are awaited with interest.

There is a great army of legal counsel in the proceedings to test the soundness of the Clark bill and its applicability to Conneltsville, but it does not clearly appear just who is for the bill and who against it.

The B. & O. engineers, who have been put back to fring during the season of dull traffic, probably wish the dull season and the hot season didn't come together.

SCALPED WITH A TENT STAKE FATE OF A BYSTANDER

Ball Player Alleged to Have Cut Scalp From Head of Hawkeye Youth.

LATTER HAD NO PART IN FIGHT

Melroe Broke Out in Short Street,
Scottdale, in Which Mack Hall Was Also Somewhat Used Up; Other
Notes of News of the Mill Town.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTDALE, July 17.—John Lloyd, Jr., of Hawkeye, was scalped with a tent stake alleged to be wielded by "Red" Slaley, a ball player, in a fight which took place late last evening in Short street, behind the merry-go-round of the carnival. Bystanders say that Lloyd had nothing to do with the matter, but it fell to his lot to be the unfortunate innocent bystander. Mack Hall, a colored youth, was also done up in the melee, and Hall, it is said to have been playing the part of a pacifier. Hall and John Quaries were arrested but were released by Burgess R. F. Lilly when he heard their stories and the evidence of witnesses of the affair, which has been the only evidence of any disorder in town to that time during the week. From investigations by the police it is said that Slaley got into a clash with Quaries, and Hall restored temporary harmony between the two, when Slaley is alleged to have picked up a tent stake swung it and struck Lloyd who was in the crowd that had gathered. Lloyd was felled and his scalp cut open so that the day of the scalp fell over one eye. His wounds were sewn up and he was taken to his home. Slaley made his escape at the time.

PARACHUTE SHOW.
Another successful balloon ascension was given from the Brennen lot on Pittsburgh street in connection with the firemen's carnival, between 8 and 9 o'clock last evening. The rope connecting the balloon and parachute was slow in working and the woman rider on the little trapeze under the balloon went a good deal higher than it was intended she should go. At a distance of about 2,000 feet from the ground the parachute was finally detached and the woman came slowly to the ground alighting near the Chestnut street school building. The balloon had emptied and beat the parachute to the ground. There was an immense crowd on the streets for the carnival in the evening. The balloon ascension is promised for each evening.

MORE FAMILY HISTORY

Illinois Woman Shows More Light on the O'Neil Family.

Special to The Courier.
SMITHFIELD, July 17.—H. O'Neil is in receipt of another interesting letter from Mrs. Mary C. Lloyd of Effingham, Ill., in which she encloses a number of papers relating to Timothy O'Neil and his descendants.

Among them is an account taken from a local paper of a monument erected by William McHenry and Elizabeth Addinson, grandsons of Elizabeth O'Neil McHenry to perpetuate her kindly act in pioneer days and is as follows: "Stone placed at grave made by Elizabeth McHenry nearly a century ago, tribute from the grandsons. A grave stone bearing the following inscription was placed in position near the center of the Liberty cemetery near Enterprise last week. This stone marks the grave of Baby Kruger, the first burial in Liberty cemetery. The grave was dug and the body buried by Elizabeth McHenry and this stone erected by her grandsons January 1, 1912."

"This stone was furnished by William Toohy of Effingham. While it was being put in readiness it was viewed by hundreds of persons who manifested much interest in its peculiar inscription."

"The body of 'Baby Kruger' was carried by Mrs. McHenry before her upon the horn of a sidesaddle and buried in a grave made by the pioneer woman. The question asked most frequently of Mr. Toohy concerning the inscription was 'Where were all the men at the time?' It is not definitely known what was the cause of a general exodus of the men of the community at that time, but the most plausible theory has been advanced—that they were away on their annual deer hunt."

"While here from Chicago last fall (1911), Elmer W. Addinson learned of the interesting event connected with the early life of his grandmother and he and his cousin, William McHenry decided to erect a suitable monument at the spot where the burial had been made."

"The tiny grave proved to be the nucleus of the large and well kept burying ground which is located opposite the Liberty Baptist Church."

"Following is a biographical sketch of the sturdy pioneer woman whose memory has been honored in this peculiar manner:

"Elizabeth O'Neil McHenry was born in Pennsylvania, December 29, 1771, or 11 years ago. She was the only child of Timothy O'Neil, who came from Ireland after he had reached manhood's estate. Mr. O'Neil followed for a while in the Revolutionary War and was under command of General Wayne. He settled as an orderly sergeant until the close of the war when his services in behalf of the country of his adoption ended. He settled in Pennsylvania and worked at his trade, that of shoemaker. His wife was of German extraction. They were a thrifty and sturdy pair and handed down many commendable traits to succeeding generations."

"Years passed and Elizabeth McHenry O'Neil grew to a womanhood's estate and became the wife of Joseph McHenry, a farmer of Irish descent. The marriage took place about the year 1800. Mr. McHenry and his Irish-German wife moved to Ohio, leaving in what is now Champaign a suburb of Cincinnati. Mrs. McHenry making the trip on a pack horse and carrying the entire journey a nine months old child, which was none other than the late James McHenry of Switzerland county. About 1818 Mr. and Mrs. McHenry removed to Cotton township, Switzerland county. It was while they lived at this point probably about in 1820, that the burial alluded to before took place. Mr. McHenry died at the age of 75 'Giant' as Mrs. McHenry was familiarly known, attained to the ripe old age of 92 years, nine months and 15 days.—Rising Sun Local, March 25, 1912.

SHIPMENTS INCREASE

Baltimore & Ohio Tonnage Shows a Gain for May.

Heavy shipments of bituminous coal continued to be handled over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad during May tonnage transported was considerably above that during the same month last year, and this indicates to what a large extent mines along the road produced coal. June tonnage was no doubt above that of last year, and the fiscal year undoubtedly ended with a new record established, despite factors operating against the coal trade back in the winter months.

Shipments of bituminous coal transported during May amounted to 2,915,812 tons, compared with 2,785,580 tons during same month last year, an increase of 209,232 tons, or 7.5 per cent. This was the second largest month this year, falling but slightly under the 3,000,000 ton mark. Tonnage moved over various railroads for which statistics are available show that movement was very heavy and that demand was better than ever before in normal times. Still there were some who would believe that movement was under that of previous years.

Indications are that tonnage movement for second half of the year will be large on account of heavy demand from the lakes and in fact from all directions and once tariff agitation is settled and manufacturers find out that there is not to be much change the demand will be greatly augmented and prices will be high. Everything points to a shortage of both labor and transportation facilities.

Shipments for five months, January 1 to May 31 were heavy and it is gratifying to see that despite extra heavy demand in the early part of 1913, due to extremely mild weather for the season of the year, tonnage movement increased. Tonnage hauled during the period stated amounted to 13,604,059 tons, compared with 13,221,435 tons during the same period of 1912, an increase of 382,624 tons, or 2.8 per cent. It must not be stated that the strike in April, 1912, seriously affected tonnage movement on this road for the movement was heavier in that month than in any previous April, therefore the increase in tonnage this year is all the more remarkable.

Points for Mothers

Summer Whooping Cough.
In the summer there often comes an epidemic of whooping cough. Mother notices that her child has a slight hacking cough, which becomes more frequent and prolonged as the days pass and which seems not to respond to the usual treatments for colds. The paroxysms seem to grow more pronounced at night, and vomiting follows a severe spell of coughing.

Well, if it is whooping cough you will have to accept the fact pleasantly—and intelligently—and do every other child in the vicinity.

A child may have many severe coughing spells during the day and yet his health be not much impaired. The main point is to give nourishment that can be retained. This can be done by feeding every two hours in small portions rather than giving three heavy meals. A tight bandage around the abdomen will lessen the strain of coughing and tend to prevent vomiting. In the early stages of whooping cough rub the throat with a mixture of oil and alcohol during the day with a mild antiseptic solution.

The whooping is heard about three weeks after the first signs, and it lasts for about three weeks. The cough may remain for some time after the typical whoop has gone.

Disinfection is necessary. Chloride of lime or a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid will answer all demands. Do not neglect to give fresh air—plenty of it—during waking and sleeping hours. Sunlight must be admitted, and protection from bad weather must be given. It is better to have special toys that may be burned when the patient recovers.

The chief dangers of whooping cough are the results, or the "sequela," as doctors call them. It is not uncommon for pneumonia to follow this disease. Tuberculosis is another terrible consequence of which parents should be especially watchful. It is frequently established before suspected, and through carelessness of parents irreparable damage is done.

If the child coughs for an unusually prolonged period, be wise in time. Have his lungs tested once a week and feed them fresh air. Give the child some opportunity to establish himself, and if perchance a few are present, battle with them by using nature's weapons—sunlight, air and nourishing food.

A disinfection of the room after recovery is a safeguard not to be forgotten. Your child contracts the disease from some one. Prevent some one's child from taking and passing on the danger.

New Ideas For Nursery.

Mothers are anxious to make the nursery attractive these days. What are called "life motifs" or studies from nature are now popular designs for decoration and can easily be achieved. Take a single large sheet of water color paper and on it's paste a variety of cut out white paper animals, which are to serve as a frame. At regular intervals of twelve inches paste one of these animals—no dog, cat, squirrel, kangaroo or any kind of bird. All these must be cut out of white paper, though a little variety is afforded by giving yellow bills and red feet to the chickens.

The walls above and below this frieze of white animals may be painted in tan color and so serve as a restful background to the decorations.

The bird motif in the brilliant colors of every gay bird, robin, red-breast, bird of paradise, etc., is also highly effective on a background of grey cartridge paper and invariably pleases a nursery of children.

Educating Father.

Mary Stewart Cutting in Harper's Bazar writes about "Educating Father." Among the phases of this process which she describes with much humor is the following:

"Father's salient idea, of course, when Selma graduates, is that now she will stay at home and help her mother. It makes no difference that mother doesn't want Selma's help in the household. Her one desire is to have her child 'asked to everything' and to be able to see Selma enjoying herself; to have the house full of Selma's young friends, arrange for the clothes needed when she is invited away over a week end and smooth over all the difficulties that may be in the way—to the mother's perviousness over Selma's youthful happiness and hear about it all in the first glow of Selma's return from a delightful visit, to be, as it were, vicariously, a girl herself again.

"It is dear and fathering to have father sternly insisting that mother shall be considered first. She would miss it if he didn't show that ever jealous regard for her, but it is dreadfully hampering as far as her and Selma's plans are concerned.

"It keeps her, in perfunctory respect for his authority, earnestly impressing on the girl how thoughtful and kind and generous father is and how much money he has already spent on her, really more than he can afford, and the exact reason he doesn't want her to go to the party on Saturday, as if youth could ever be reasoned out of wanting a good time while all the time mother knows, and so does Selma, that she is going to persuade him to agree to all they want."

How, When and Where.

One of the company goes out of the room while the others choose a word to be guessed, one with two or three different meanings being the best.

We will suppose that the word "spring" has been chosen. When the person who is outside the room is recalled he (or she) asks each one in succession, "How do you like it?" The answers may be, "Dry" (meaning the season), "Cold and clear" (a spring of water), "Strong" (a watch spring) and "Flick" (a jump).

The next question is, "When do you like it?" The answers may be: "When I am in the country," "When I am thirsty," "When my watch is broken." The next question is, "Where do you like it?" and the answers may be: "Anywhere and everywhere," "In hot weather," "In the clock." The game is to try and guess the word after any of the answers, and, if right, the player must question the place of the one who is guessing. If wrong, the questioner must keep on trying.

Make Your Own Lace Blouse.

Every woman who can set a stitch is laboring practically now to fashion herself a handmade lace blouse like the Paris models that are so distractingly pretty in the shops. These French blouses are decreasingly costly, some running up to $60 and $75, a didy price to pay for a separate shirt waist, to be sure. The distinction lies in the exquisite fineness of the material, usually all over, shadow or val lace, and in the hand stitching, which is always expensive. Such blouses are mounted over slips of flesh colored chiffon, and the becoming and soft effect of such a blouse over shoulders and arms makes every woman who sees one on another woman determined to possess such a blouse forthwith.

Keep Down the Ice Bill.

With every return of warm weather big ice bills are bound to come in this land of frozen deserts and chilled salads and cold drinks, for there is no way to meet the demand for food food excepting by keeping the icebox well stocked with ice. Many of the drivers of ice wagons and the handlers of the ice charge for more ice than they weigh out. The ice companies are seldom to blame. The handlers, if dishonest, charge for short weight, sell the ice so saved for cash and keep the extra money.

When we had a game today!
All our club played fine,
An' the other fellows, too,
Had a bully time.

They was leadin' by two runs
When our side went in
For the last half of the ninth,
With one chance to win.

First man up struck out; the next
Hit an' got to first;
Then one went out on a fly,
An' things looked their worst.

Next man, though, got safe away,
Which made two on base,
Then 'twas my turn at the bat,
An' this was the case.

Two on base an' two hands out
An' three runs to make
Tell you standin' at the bat
Kind-a made me shake!

But the ball came whizzin' by,
An' I caught it square,
'Way out past the center field,
Sent it sailin' fair.

An' the gang let out a yell
Fit to split the dome,
As I went a-tendin' round,
Bringin' all three home.

Bobby and the Raindrops.
Once upon a time, because it was raining cats and dogs, Bobby was quite sure that Tom Tit would not come to play with him. But soon there came a tapping at the windowpane, and Bobby had only to jump from bed and run and open the window, and there, on a carriage of rain clouds, sat Tom Tit himself.

"Come along!" cried the tiny fairy from his floating perch. But while Bobby would not go until he had slipped on his rubber boots, for he knew as well as any one that a rain cloud isn't absolutely dry and that his mamma might not like to have him coming home with his stockings all wet through. Then he gave a bold leap from the window sill and landed not an inch away from where Tom Tit was sitting.

Tom Tit did not have to say a word to the carriage of clouds or tell it where to go. For off it flew, and the swift winds swung it up, up, to the raindrop waterfall. There it stopped, at the very edge, and it was a very good thing that it did, for if Bobby had tumbled into the waterfall he would surely have been shot straight down to earth again, along with a thousand raindrops. Quite a noise they made, too, in their bouncing hurry, so that Bobby had to hold his fists tight over his ears.

Perhaps that was why he didn't hear Master Soppy Wet approaching. "Ho, ho!" cried he, rubbing the water from his left eye and twinkling it at Bobby. "Who are you?"

"Way, I'm one of the little people you pour your horrid rain on," replied Bobby.

from what I have been doing. You're looking just as little and thin as ever. It certainly is a shame that boys and girls don't like me and won't come into the garden or the fields to play whenever I send them my shining drops. Just see how silly you are to come up here with big rubber boots, as if I wanted to make you sick with chills and coughs and colds. No, indeed; I am the man who makes everything grow tall and strong and beautiful. Now, silly Bobby, I do wish you would remove those boots! Please do!"

"What was Bobby to do? So off one foot and then the other he slipped his big black boots.

But soon Master Soppy Wet looked at his water clock and found that Bobby ought to be setting out for dry land. So he sat him down on one rubber boot and Tom Tit on the other and with a snail "swish swash" sent them flying back to earth. Down, down they slid on the great, fast toboggan of diamond raindrops. And where do you think Bobby landed? Soft and safe in the arms of the good old sand-man.

RUSHED TO THE RESCUE.

Then They Made a Tactful, If Ignoble, Retreat to Safety.

An amusing story of the adventure that four men had with an irritable bull is told by a correspondent of the London Field. It contains a hint that may be useful to some reader who shall hereafter find himself in a similar disagreeable situation.

A farmer had a bull that he thought perfectly docile. One day he was quietly walking behind the herd when without any warning the bull turned and came straight at him. He had a heavy club in his hands, and he struck the animal with all his might over the head and eyes several times, when the club broke. For the moment he did not know what to do and thought it was all over with him, when he remembered that some one had told him that a bull would not attack you if you lay down, so he threw himself flat on his face and shouted for help and three of his men who were not far off came running to the rescue.

When they got within about twenty yards he told them to come on their hands and knees, and in this way they came up alongside of him. The question then was what to do. They came to the conclusion that the only thing left was for all of them to retreat backward on their hands and knees. This they did, and the bull, never more than a yard off, followed them up with his head slightly on one side. Meanwhile he snorted and bellowed, and his eyes, showing all the whites, looked, the farmer said, as if they would come out of his head. At last the men reached the river bank, slipped over the edge and so escaped.

Incidental Music.

One afternoon a couple from an adjoining town presented themselves to a Boston divine and asked to be married just as he was about to enter the pulpit to conduct an afternoon service. The minister replied that he regretted that he could not at that moment comply with their wish, but that immediately upon the conclusion of the service he would take pleasure in performing the ceremony. The lovers after demurring seated themselves in the rear of the church. When the minister had finished the service he made the following announcement: "The parties who are to be joined in matrimony will present themselves at the church immediately after the singing of Hymn 415, 'Mistaken Souls That Dream of Heaven.'"—Exchange.

UPLIFT IN COKE PRICES SEEMS TO BE SUBSTANTIAL

Restriction of Iron Output
Will Strengthen the Situation.

FURNACE SITUATION ANALYZED

Not Much Curtailment Necessary if Steel Trade Does Not Slump; About a Dozen Furnaces Already Out or Preparing to Bank or Blow Out.

From The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, July 16.—The past week has been one of quiet tension in the coke market. There has been a much larger volume of inquiry for prompt furnace coke, distributed in small lots. This inquiry has been satisfied only partially, and in no case by coke at less than $2.50 for standard grade. The buyers have shown a strong disposition to sit up their inquiries into small lots in order to conceal the tonnage in which they stood in need, and an account of the retail nature of the business done sellers have difficulty in arriving at even approximate estimates of the total tonnage moved. It is quite probable that 10,000 or 15,000 tons of spot and prompt furnace coke has been sold in the week in small lots, chiefly at $2.50, with a small tonnage reported at $2.60.

There has been practically no inquiry for coke for extended delivery, either for the balance of July, August, or the remainder of the year. The furnaces not yet covered are well supplied of the possibility of sellers to hold out for $2.50 and regard it as fruitless to inquire as long as they are not willing to pay the $2.50 price, as this figure is thoroughly established for the present at least.

Additional furnaces are talking of banking or blowing out. There are reports now as to six or eight furnaces intending to bank or blow out if they cannot secure coke at less than $2.50, and these furnaces include several which have bought coke in the past at the $2.50 price, their idea being to make some pig iron to apply on sales contracts they have, before ceasing production. Apart from the six or eight furnaces which are talking of going out, it is understood four or five furnaces, all merchant stacks, have already banked, having ceased regular operations as soon as the coke was used up which they secured on contracts expiring June 30.

The attitude of the coke operators is that it will be well for the general situation if furnaces bank or blow out, for they admit that if pig iron prices are too low, as claimed by some furnaces, to justify $2.50 coke, the best plan is to put production of pig iron to be curtailed until conditions bring about higher pig iron prices. Inasmuch as there are no stocks of pig iron in the yards of producers or consumers, it is maintained that a small change in the current market will be sufficient to revive the market. The operators on their part are content to curtail their production of coke to meet whatever decrease in requirements is caused by furnaces banking or blowing out.

We have made a careful summary of the merchant and steel works blast furnaces using Connellsville coke. The shipments of Connellsville coke in June averaged 405,000 tons per week. Of this total about 15,000 tons weekly was of foundry coke, leaving 390,000 tons weekly of furnace coke. This went to furnaces approximately as follows: Merchant furnaces, 75 stacks, using 120,000 tons of coke; steel works, 100 stacks, using 270,000 tons weekly. The merchant stacks average considerably smaller than the steel works furnaces, showing about 230 tons daily per merchant stack and about 335 tons daily per steel works stack.

The division between steel works furnaces and merchant furnaces does not coincide with the division of coke ovens between furnace ovens and merchant ovens, even though in the majority of cases the furnace ovens are controlled by steel works and the merchant ovens sell to merchant blast furnaces. There are a few merchant furnaces which make their coke themselves, but very few. On the other hand, several of the steel works interests combine very considerable quantities of coke secured from merchant ovens. Thus there is more merchant coke produced than is consumed by merchant blast furnaces.

In the week of June 28 production was about 245,000 tons of coke by furnace ovens and 162,000 tons by merchant ovens. Deducting 15,000 tons of foundry coke from the merchant oven output would leave 149,000 tons of furnace coke made by merchant ovens or 20,000 to 25,000 tons more than the consumption of the merchant furnaces. As there is a small tonnage of coke produced by merchant furnaces, it would appear that approximately 30,000 tons of coke weekly was shipped by merchant ovens to steel works blast furnaces.

The market stands quite as follows:
Prompt furnace ..... $2.50 @ $2.60
Contract furnace ..... $2.50
Prompt foundry ..... $2.50 @ $2.60
Contract foundry ..... $2.50 @ $2.60

The pig iron market continues on the somewhat quiet basis which has shown in the past three or four weeks. Consumers are buying, but are taking rather limited tonnage, buying fairly well ahead in some cases, but not taking as much iron per month as formerly. The latest important inquiry is that of the Standard Industrial Manufacturing Company, being for 4,000 tons for August and September, with the privilege of deferring some deliveries into October. This company has already bought several odd lots for July and August delivery. The market is not notably changed, being on the following basis: Bessemer, $16; basic, $14.50; millbillet, $14.25; No. 3 foundry, $14; gray iron, $13.75; f. o. b. values, furnace, 90 cents higher delivered Pittsburgh.

THIRD STAGE OF DECLINE OVERTAKES STEEL TRADE

Impending Fourth Stage Involves Curtailment in Production and Shipments.

From The Weekly Courier.
NEW YORK, July 16.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will summarize the steel and iron situation tomorrow as follows:

The middle of July finds the steel market in the third stage of its decline from the extremely strong position occupied last October, when contracts were being placed at almost double the rate of shipping, and specifications were equally heavy. The first stage in the decline covered approximately the first three months of the year, when contracts were somewhat lighter than shipments, but specifications were fully equal to shipments. The second stage ran from early April until about the middle of June, when new contracts were light, being about one-half the shipments, while specifications were from two-thirds to three-fourths of the shipments. The third stage began in the latter part of June, with both contracts and specifications extremely light, almost negligible.

Throughout these stages shipments have been kept up at substantially the full productive capacity. A fourth stage, now regarded in most quarters as distinctly possible, would involve a curtailment in shipments, through specifications beginning to run out. There is a wide disparity in the time in which the various mills would reach this fourth stage, for some of them still have a very large margin of live specifications on books. The steel market has been holding quite steady after its decline of earlier in the year. The wire market still lacks action and the readjustment in nominal prices expected for some time has not yet occurred. Prices of other important steel products continue to hold firmly at the levels established last year.

Pig iron has been showing a distinctly firmer tone on the average, but a definite advance can hardly be said to be in progress. The effort of Connellsville coke operators to secure $2.50 is continued and has resulted in the banking of some furnaces, with prospects of more furnaces banking or blowing out. Coke production appears to have been restricted to meet the situation, and none is offered at under the regular figure. A tense situation has thus been produced.

MYSTERIOUS SUIT

Is Filed by Coke Brokers' Trustee
Against Coke Operators.

The trustee in bankruptcy of J. K. Dimmick & Co. recently filed a mysterious suit against most of the merchant coke operators of the Connellsville region in the United States District Court of Philadelphia.

The names mentioned in the suit are: Isaac W. Semans, J. P. Brennen, Charles E. Lenhart, A. P. Austin, R. W. Austin, R. W. Fry, Julian Kennedy, James H. Hoover, G. S. Hurrah, J. W. Abraham, E. H. Abraham, R. W. Gilmore, G. B. Gilmore, L. W. Fox, W. G. Rock, Francis Rock, John Harding, George D. Howell, J. V. Thompson and Wiley L. Forre.

The defendants do not regard the proceedings seriously. John P. Brennen and Charles E. Lenhart are the only two who have been good with Dimmick. The Dimmick firm were coke brokers and at one time did an extensive business in the Connellsville region and had an office in Uniontown. They failed last fall after the merchant operators determined to dispense with the services of brokers, and at the time it was rumored that they were sold short, that is that they had engaged to deliver a large tonnage at prices materially lower than those which subsequently prevailed.

"I don't know what the suit is for," said one operator, "unless Dimmick's trustee is going to charge the merchant operators with conspiracy because they refused to sell him coke at his own price."

EXPECT EARLY START

Bureau of Mines Buildings in Pittsburgh to Be Rushed.

Work on the new buildings for the Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh, for which Congress has appropriated $500,000, is expected to be under way soon. W. G. McArdle, secretary of the treasury, has asked the Congress for an emergency appropriation of $15,000 to pay for surveying the plot adjoining Schenley park, which the city of Pittsburgh gave the government in exchange for the Arsenal site in Lawrenceville. A portion of the appropriation will also be used in preparing plans for the buildings, which are to be erected under the direction of Director J. W. Holmes of the Bureau of Mines, Oscar O. Wendelroth, supervising architect of the treasury, and General W. H. Bixby, chief of army engineers.

Representative M. E. Foster of Illinois, chairman of the House committee on mines, says the recommendation of Secretary McArdle will be accepted and the necessary funds forthcoming this session. Under the wording of the act appropriating the $500,000 for the plant contracts can be entered into for the buildings when an initial appropriation is authorized by Congress.

WATCHING DEVELOPMENTS

Future of American Water Works
Subsidiaries Is Discussed.

The future of the subsidiaries of the American Water Works & Gas Company is a matter of interesting discussion in Pittsburgh financial circles. It is reported that one of the receivers has suggested that the earnings of each of the subsidiaries be kept separate and apart from income of the big holding company, in order that the bonds of each subsidiary shall be amply protected, and that none of the surplus earnings of the more prosperous companies be diverted to sustaining the less prosperous.

Commenting upon this suggestion, a banker said that in his opinion it would be better to conduct the finances of all the companies as heretofore; that earnings applicable to the interest of interest on the bonds of subsidiaries might be earmarked for that company, but that the combination as a whole should be kept intact, so that it could carry out the constructive work already planned. The handling of the proposition will call for a high degree of financial ability to insure its success along the lines projected by its promoters.

PROTEST FREE PIG

Eastern Makers Declare Senate's Proposal Unfair and Disastrous.
Merchant producers of pig iron in the eastern district, at the monthly meeting of the Eastern Pig Iron Association at Philadelphia, July 3, expressed a sharp protest against the Senate proposal to revise the 3 per cent ad valorem duty upon pig iron in the Underwood bill and to place the commodity upon the free list. Eastern makers declare such action was not only unfair in substance, but would seriously affect their business.

The WOMAN

A Novel by Albert Payson Terhune

Founded on
William C. de Mille's Play
Illustrated with Photos from the Play and Drawings by V.L. Banks

"You won't marry a son of Jim Blake's!" echoed Tom. "Well, after tonight I'm not Jim Blake's son. Here's where I cut loose and—" "Go as far as you like," vociferated his father, outwardly unmoved. "But the girl tells us or else she goes to jail."

"I won't tell!"

"Mark, ring for the officer!"

"There he is at the door," answered Robertson as the buzzer sounded. "Let him in, Nellie."

"I won't tell!"

Nellie opened the door. Standish stood on the threshold. Tom, who had leaped forward passionately, drew back.

"Come in, Mr. Standish," said Mark. "I suppose Gregg explained the situation to you."

"That is why I am here," curtly answered Standish.

"You know, then," went on Mark, "that she is ready to face imprisonment to shield you?"

"That is what Mr. Gregg told me. I don't understand."

"Neither do we. But we thought you might feel like saving her from punishment."

"How?"

"By voting with us on the Mullins Bill."

"No."

"You will accept her sacrifice, then?"

"I have no alternative."

Then, before any of them knew of her presence, Grace was in the room and had caught her husband's arm as blind its suavity, "look at me!" Slowly, as by hard physical effort, she raised her pale, wide-open eyes to meet his gaze.

"You know this woman's name," he declared.

At the mastery that vibrated through his voice and look, she faltered, through no conscious volition of her own.

"Yes."

"You know the name," pursued Mark, still gripping his wife's brain by the magnetism that was almost hypnotic power. "We still have time to use it. Tell it to me."

"No—no!" she murmured distractedly. "I—I can't. I won't. I—"

"Grace!" and now the iron glinted more openly through the velvet sheathing. "do you mean to say you are going to let us face ruin when one word from you would—"

"I tell you, I can't—I can't!"

Mark shifted his attack with unexpected swiftness.

"Mr. Standish is willing," said he, "to see this girl here terribly punished for protecting the guilty woman. Are you?"

"No, no! But—"

"Mrs. Robertson!" broke in Wanda, first of all to detect the note of weakness in Grace's voice. "Don't tell! Don't tell! Keep your nerve. It's all right. Never you mind what they threaten to do to me. Don't give her away!"

"Stand up!" roared Nellie.

Mark's eyes had never for an instant left his wife's face. At the horror that now deepened in it he saw what his next and crowning move must be.

"Nellie!" he ordered, "take this phone girl downstairs and turn her over to the officer who is waiting. Van Dyke will be around at the station-house in a few minutes to make the charge. And he'll see that she is held in jail too heavy for her friends to pay."

"Nellie!" yelled Tom, springing in front of the giant henchman as the latter moved toward Wanda. "If you put a finger on her I'll—"

"No!" yelled Grace in the same breath. "You shall arrest her, Mark. I can't bear it! I—"

"You'll tell?" asked Mark, exultant at the success of his ruse.

"I—yes!"

"Pardon me, Robertson," intervened Standish, as he saw Grace's last barrier break down; "but I advise you to clear the room before you let her speak. Three people here already know the name. I advise you to keep the number as small as possible."

"That is our affair, not yours," retorted Mark. "She shall tell us all. Inside of a few hours the whole country is going to know that name."

"Mark," begged Grace, "let me tell it to you alone!"

"No," refused the husband. "It's too late now to spare any one's feelings. And witnesses are necessary in an affair like this. It concerns us all. And we must move quickly."

"Mr. Standish," he went on with a savage joy that rent away the last remnant of the velvet from the iron beneath. "It's been a long fight. But you couldn't bear the organization. You've been howling for a fight to a finish. This is the finish."

"It is the finish," agreed Standish, his deep voice infinitely sad. "And I am sorry for it. I don't think you need me here any longer, gentlemen. And I will barely have time to reach the capitol before the bill comes to a vote. Good night."

He looked furtively at Grace. But she was staring blankly ahead of her with eyes that saw nothing.

"Good night," he repeated. "I would have spared you, Robertson. But you would have it."

And he was gone. His words had fallen on deaf ears. The men were leaning forward eagerly to catch Grace's first syllable.

"And now," Mark demanded, as his wife still hesitated, "who is she, Grace?"

Blake had forestalled her answer. He crossed the room to the telephone. "We win!" he was chuckling. "It's a way we've got. Hell's full of losers. And I'm still low-proof."

"What are you going to do?" queried Van Dyke, who had dropped back in his chair a few moments earlier, taking no longer even a passive part in the scene.

"I'm going to phone Gregg to let the house know the whole story; names, dates and all. By the time I get on the wire Gregg will have told."

"Hold on, Jim," objected Van Dyke. "Not yet!"

"Not yet?" What d'ye mean? Why not? We're almost against the ropes over there at the capitol. This is our last punch and it's going to be a knockout."

"Wait, Jim!" begged Van Dyke. "Wait till you hear the name."

"We've got the name. Grace is going to tell us."

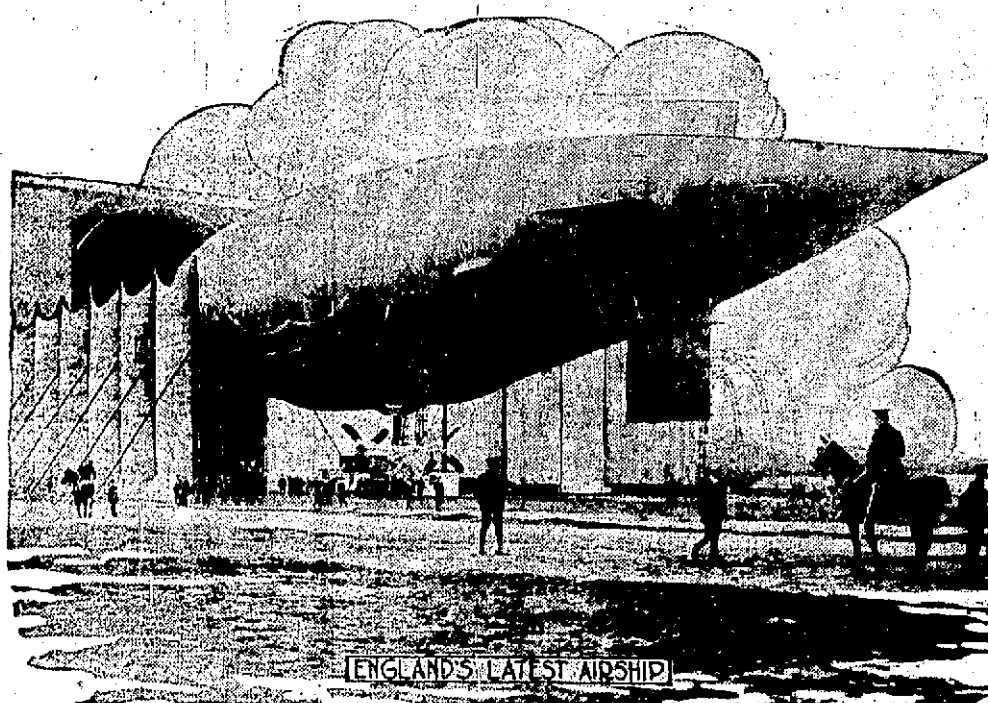

"You've got it, yes. But you can't tell it, Jim."

Blake, telephone instrument in hand, passed to glare down in angry amazement at the stammering lawyer who so calmly opposed him in the hour of victory.

"Why in blazes can't we use it?" he blustered. "Are you weakening?"

He took the receiver from the book. But Van Dyke, with a peremptory gesture, halted him.

England Testing New Type of Airship That Has a Prow Extremely Pointed

FARNBOROUGH, England, July 17.—England is testing a new type of dirigible airship for use by the army. The craft shown in the picture as she started out for a test is extremely pointed, and this design is expected to increase the speed without increasing the amount of power needed. England is taking a great interest in the development of aerial navigation for war purposes.

"Wait, I say!" ordered the lawyer. "Nellie, go downstairs and get rid of that officer. And don't come back."

"Go with him, Tom," whispered Wanda. "For my sake. You don't want to hear the name."

"You're right," assented Tom, following in Nellie's wake. "It's none of my business. Now that you are safe—"

The door closed behind the two departing men.

"Come, Grace," prompted Mark. "Who is she?"

Grace's lips paled. But they were dry and cracked. Her tongue would not stir.

CHAPTER XXI.

Jim Blake, Loser.

And so for an instant they stood. It was an odd tableau: Grace, helpless, shaking, dumb; Wanda, her arms clasped protectively about the unheeding woman, who did not so much as realize their presence nor feel the warm sympathy of their embrace; Mark, his triumph tinged with impatience at his wife's hesitations; Blake, still gripping the telephone and glowing in angry surprise at the lawyer; Van Dyke grim, alert, master of the moment, his lean face set in lines of unwonted sadness.

And it was Van Dyke who broke the brief silence. His precise dry voice was tinged by a note of something almost solemn as he addressed Robertson.

"Mark," he said, "Miss Kelly has told us that she promised the—the woman not to tell. When did she make that promise?"

"What does that matter now?" snapped Mark. "We—"

"She never heard of the affair until early this evening. So it must be since then that she talked with the woman about it. Miss Kelly has been on duty downstairs ever since six o'clock. She has not left this hotel. How could she have communicated with the woman?"

"By telephone. It—"

"I think not," denied Van Dyke, the cold sorrow in his voice now apparent to every one. "The woman is here in this house."

"So much the better!" declared Blake, again picking up the telephone. Van Dyke, in gloomy wonder, turned on his chief.

"You have often boasted, Jim," said he, "that you owe your success to the fact you see things just a second sooner than other people. Don't you understand—even yet?"

"No," growled Blake, "I don't. Out with it, man! What are you trying to get at? Don't beat about the bush. You're wasting time that we haven't got."

Van Dyke faced Robertson; his lean face working.

"Mark," he said, tapping the duplicate telephone list. "Your house in New York is charged here with two calls. We thought it was a mistake."

A wordless gurgling from Jim Blake interrupted him. The telephone was set down by a hand that shook as though from palsy. For a single instant the heavy-lidded eyes were wholly, starkly unveiled in a glare of unbelieving horror. Then they turned stupidly upon Grace who bowed her head in a spasm of hysterical uncheckered weeping before the palsy query in their gaze.

Wanda Kelly would her arms tight about the heavy body. But Grace neither felt the contact nor heard the whisper of eager futile comforting. Blake stared open-mouthed, his face greenish and flabby, the stern jaw loose, the keen eyes bulging. Mark Robinson was still frowning perplexedly at Van Dyke.

"Don't you understand?" pleaded the latter.

"No, I don't," returned Mark. "What have the two phone calls to my home got to do with—?"

"Suppose the second call were not a mistake?" hesitated Van Dyke.

Robinson's face went purple. The big veins near his temples swelled grotesquely. He took an involuntary step toward Van Dyke. The latter raised a protesting hand.

"Mark," he said, flinching not at all before the bloodshot fury in the husband's little eyes, "we are here as lawyers, making an investigation. At least we have struck the right trail. I am sorry it leads where it does. I—"

He got no further. At a stride Robertson was beside his wife. Roughly brushing aside Wanda's embracing arms he caught Grace by the shoulder and held her.

"You hear what this man insinuates?" he cried thickly. "I don't ask you to foul your lips by denying it. I'll attend to him later. But give me the right to do that by telling the woman's name at once."

"Grace!" croaked Blake, his throat

Gathered Her into His Arms as Though She Were a Baby.

sanded with a horror that he would not confess, "don't you hear what they're saying, girl?"

In his harsh eagerness, Mark forcibly lifted his wife's bent head and forced her eyes to meet his.

"What's the matter?" he demanded sharply. "Why don't you speak? Tell Van Dyke he lies. Tells him he lies, I say! Oh!"

(To Be Continued.)

Laugh Hunt's Chaotic Home.

A curious description of Leigh Hunt's house, where the poet lived with his wife and six children, is that given by Carlyle, as recorded in "Bulwer's Review of the Keats-Shelley Memorial Home."

"Hunt's house excels all you have ever read of—a poetical tuckermore without parallel even in literature. In his family room, where are a sickly large wife and a whole shoal of well-conditioned, wild children, you will find half a dozen rickety chairs gathered from half a dozen different bucksters. On these and around them and over the dusty table and rugged carpet lie all kinds of litter—books, papers, eggshells, scissors and, last night when I was there, the torn heart of a half quartered loaf. His own room he keeps cleaner."

Understanding.

A well known artist tells of an amusing colloquy in an art gallery where two young women were viewing a copy of Millet's "Gleaners."

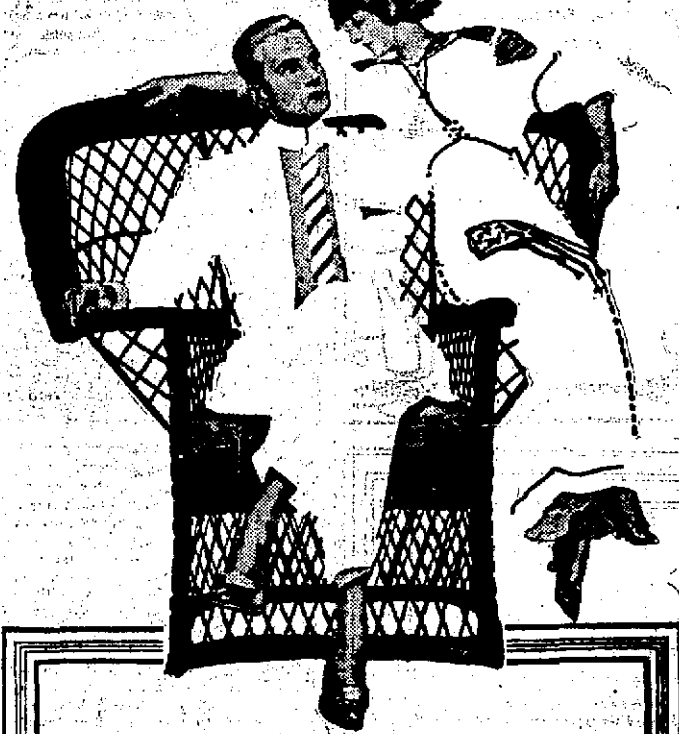

One of the young women was carried away by her enthusiasm: "How beautiful! How wonderful! What art!" she exclaimed. "Above all, how natural!"

Then, after a pause, she said, "But what are those people doing?"

Drawing nearer to read the title, she was enlightened. "Oh, now," she added, "I see! Gleaners! Millet! How wonderful! How beautiful!—"

The Tree Surgeon.

A new profession has recently come into being. We refer to the profession of operating on sick trees in order to save their life and beauty. This is a much more serious problem than it seems to be, offhand, and the various state and federal authorities are spending a great deal of time and money devising ways of preventing and curing tree ills.

Private citizens and public officials have long been awake to these problems in the eastern states, but widespread interest in the west is of more recent manifestation. This is largely due to the fact that practically all of the diseases and pests which infest our ornamental shade trees have first shown themselves upon the eastern coast. Nearly all have been imported from foreign countries on nursery stock, etc.

At the present time large areas in the east are practically denuded of trees through the devastation of the Gypsy and Brown Tailed moths, San Jose, Elm Tree and Oyster Shell scale, chestnut bark diseases, and other serious pests. These pests are moving steadily westward and every inch of their advance must be stubbornly contested if the trees are to be saved.

One of the best and easiest ways to help our trees combat these and other ills, is to prune them properly, so as to conserve their strength, and at the same time get the best possible artistic results.

Most of the readers of this column have to consider trees which are already planted, rather than newly planted ones. Generally speaking, then, your trees should be pruned at least once in two years and preferably every year.

The tools to be used are a thin bladed pruning saw and a pair of pruning shears. Cut off all suckers or water sprouts close to the branch.

Remove dead wood wherever found, cutting with a smooth cut as close as possible to the live branch or trunk. If the end of a branch is dead or broken, cut it off with a smooth, slanting cut, well back in the good wood.

To avoid tearing down the bark, always make an under cut before cutting through a heavy branch from above. By cutting off a limb as close as possible and parallel to the trunk, the bark will heal over it. It is a good plan to paint all fresh wounds with white lead to prevent decay setting in during the healing over process. If decay has already set in, cut away the decayed wood as far as possible and fill the cavity with a good rich mixture of cement.

No branches should be permitted to grow low enough to obstruct the view on deciduous trees. Crooked, deformed and interfering branches should be cut out as early as possible.
